

Tara Carraro

Senior Vice President & Chief Communications Officer

Tara Carraro serves as Senior Vice President and Chief Communications Officer for U. S. Steel where she is responsible for reputation management and communications strategies designed to help deliver on our business strategy. She has executive responsibility for non-governmental stakeholder engagement and has also led Community Relations. Tara joined U. S. Steel in March 2022 and is a member of the senior leadership team reporting to President and CEO David B. Burritt. She also serves as Executive Sponsor of U. S. Steel's employee resource group (ERG) that focuses on empowering individuals with disabilities. She previously served as Executive Sponsor of the ERG focused on sustainability.

Tara has a wealth of experience at blue-chip corporations encompassing a broad range of communications disciplines, with a specialty in reputation and issues management.

Tara most recently served as Executive Vice President & Chief Corporate Affairs Officer for Nestlé Waters North America (NWNA) where she guided the company's strategy and planning, executive communications and thought leadership, media relations, crisis and issues management, community relations, corporate branding, and employee communications and advocacy.

Prior to joining NWNA, Tara was Senior Vice President, Communications for WWE® – an integrated media organization and recognized leader in global entertainment. Before her time at WWE, Tara held a variety of Corporate Affairs and Communications roles at Heineken USA, the Altria family of companies and Pepsi-Cola International.

Tara serves on the Board of Trustees for the United States Steel Foundation. She is also a member of the Public Relations Society of America, Arthur W. Page Society and W50 Communications.

-o0o-